

The Ambiguity of Time

the relentless march of life, everyday after everyday - thirty years in the blink of an eye; how to explain the ambiguity of time it deceives us into feeling younger than we are it startles us by one day suddenly presenting us with the unwanted realisation of middle-age, and the non-achievement of dreams it rushes past it drags its feet unpredictable, disorientating, confusing but the gentle guiding love of God cradles us through out all time calming our time weary hearts returning them to the strong and steady, regular and comforting rhythm of His eternity
